Lt. Governor's Office on Aging Awards $20,000
Seed Grant to Genesis I Adult Day Care Services

(Columbia S.C.) Caregivers and families of people suffering from Alzheimer's disease and related dementias in Florence, Williamsburg, Sumter, Clarendon, Darlington, and Marion counties will soon have new option available to them for respite care, thanks to a new program funded with a $20,000 start-up grant from the South Carolina Lt. Governor's Office on Aging.

Representatives from Genesis I Adult Day Care, Inc. in Florence traveled to Columbia last Wednesday, June 28, to receive the award and attend a grantee workshop put on by the state Alzheimer's Resource Coordination Center (ARCC). ARCC Coordinator Fran Brannon presented the awards on behalf of Lt. Governor André Bauer.

The organization's leaders say they plan to use their grant award to start a new Enhanced Evening/Weekend Group Respite Program that will provide a break for caregivers in the evening during the week as well as on weekends. The service should provide a tremendous benefit for caregivers who work during the week.

According to Brannon, the seed grants provided by the Office on Aging's ARCC serve a critical role in helping jump-start new community programs that are helping the growing number of Alzheimer's patients in the state and the loved ones who care for them.

"This year's recipients will join 64 other programs statewide that were started with ARCC seed grants that are now self-sustaining and providing much-needed services in communities across the state," said Brannon.

The ARCC was created to provide statewide coordination, service system development, information and referral, and caregiver support services to individuals with Alzheimer's disease and related disorders, their families and caregivers. Each year, the Center provides seed money through a competitive grants process to help local communities build self-sustaining programs that will provide education and support to individuals in South Carolina suffering from Alzheimer's disease, their families and caregivers.

According to research from the University of South Carolina's Arnold School of Public Health, there are approximately 50,000 individuals in South Carolina with Alzheimer's disease and related dementias (ARD), and that number is projected to grow to 90,000 by 2030. The impact upon South Carolina's Medicaid program, families and businesses will be considerable.

Since the average lifetime cost of care for an individual with Alzheimer's is $174,000, the cost to South Carolina families, individuals, insurance companies, businesses, Medicaid and Medicare would be $8.7 billion for the current 50,000 individuals diagnosed with ARD. By 2030 that figure could increase to at least $15.7 billion.
